NOTE: The 2 found serv-kaps would have been used for control on this survey if they had been close to their record position as determined by tying them to the original control used in laying out the subdivision (shown as found points); the property corners and R/W were established by holding the record bearings and distances from the original control.
The serv-kaps could also have been used for control if they had been shown on a recorded survey (none found); as they were not, anyone could have set them.
